Bill 'Psycho' Gates Wants To Release Genetically Modified Mosquitoes To Inject Us With Vaccines

February 28, 2021 medicine, science bill-gates, genetically modified, technology, vaccine, vaccines

The latest luncacy to flow from the megalomaniacal mind of the world's richest madman and wannabe Galactic Emperor Palpatine, Bill Gates is the latest iteration of a plan this vaccine – obsessed world domination freak has nurtured for a long time. He wants to release genetically midified mosquitos to inject us with vaccine. Apart from the impossibility of controlling who gets bitten by the GM mozzies and just about everything else in the way of unintended consequences from allergic reactions to the genetic modification causing the tiny insects to mutate into 12 inch long man – killers, what could possibly go wrong?

Flying Syringes – Bill Gates Wants To Release Genetically Modified Mosquitoes To Inject You With Vaccines

February 26, 2021

Flying Syringes is a phrase that is used to refer to a proposed project funded by Bill Gates to create genetically modified mosquitoes that inject vaccines into people when they bite them.

In 2008, the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation awarded $100,000 to Hiroyuki Matsuoka of Jichi Medical University in Japan to do research on genetically modified mosquitoes.

Hiroyuki Matsuoka at Jichi Medical University in Japan thinks it may be possible to turn mosquitoes that normally transmit disease into "flying syringes," so that when they bite humans they deliver vaccines.

Professor Hiroyuki Matsuoka will attempt to design a mosquito that can produce and secrete a malaria vaccine protein into a host's skin. The hope is that such mosquitoes could deliver protective vaccines against other infectious diseases as well.

If Matsuoka proves that his idea has merit, he will be eligible for an additional $1 million of funding.

Bill Gates Flounders When Asked Direct Questions About His Vaccine Agenda

August 20, 2020 conspiracy, medicine, science vidéo, bill gates, covid-19, pandemic, vaccine, virus

Bill Gates, the world's greatest vaccine fan and long term purveyor of software that is not fit for purpose, has been one of the main drivers of the wholly manufactured COVID – 19 global crisis that has seen our political leaders unquestioningly follow the instructions of corporate lobbyists and representatives of the Big Pharma cartel, and trash the global economy, bankrupting tousands of businesses and destroying millions of careers, relationships and lives in the process. (Having given up on software following the crime against humanity that was Windos Vista, Gate has in recent years been building a global health empire based on vaccines, and thus is part of the Big Pharma cartel.) In the video below, from Dave Cullen's YouTube channel, Gates is seen waffling as he is asked difficult questions about his plans to saver the world from death by COVID with a vaccine that does not yet exist.

COVID – 19:The "Deadly" Hydroxychloroquine Publishing Scandal

June 27, 2020 conspiracy, coronavirus, medicine médical, big pharma, corrupt, covid19, medicine, science

A publishing scandal recently erupted around the use of the anti-malarial drug hydroxychloroquine (HCQ) to treat Covid 19. It is also known as quinine and chloroquine, and is on the WHO list of essential medicines.

The bark of the South American quina-quina tree has been used to treat malaria for 400 years. Quinine, a generic drug costing pennies a dose, is available for purchase online. In rare cases it can cause dizziness and irregular heartbeat.

In late May, 2020, The Lancet published a four-author study claiming that HCQ used in hospitals to treat Covid-19 had been shown conclusively to be a hazard for heart death. The data allegedly covered 96,000 patients in 671 hospitals on six continents.

After the article had spent 13 days in the headlines, dogged by scientific objections, three of the authors retracted it on June 5.

Meanwhile, during an expert closed-door meeting leaked May 24 in France, The Lancet and NEJM editors explained how financially powerful pharmaceutical players were "criminally" corrupting medical science to advance their interests ... Continue reading >>>

Big Pharma "Criminal" Influence On Research Exposed In Secret Recording Of Lancet And NEJM Editors-In-Chief

from Zero Hedge

A secretly recorded meeting between the editors-in-chief of The Lancet and the New England Journal of Medicine reveal both men bemoaning the "criminal" influence big pharma has on scientific research.

The Lancet Editor-In-Chief Richard Horton

According to Philippe Douste-Blazy, France's former Health Minister and 2017 candidate for WHO Director, the leaked 2020 Chattam House closed-door discussion between the EIC's – whose publications both retracted papers favorable to big pharma over fraudulent data.

"Now we are not going to be able to, basically, if this continues, publish any more clinical research data because the pharmaceutical companies are so financially powerful today*, and are able to use such methodologies, as to have us accept papers which are apparently methodologically perfect, but which, in reality,* manage to conclude what they want them to conclude*,"* said Lancet EIC Richard Horton.

According to Douste-Blazy, the the EICs said the influence wielded by big Pharma to influence publications is "criminal."

UK To Ask Citizens Over 70 To Self – Isolatate For 4 MONTHS As Coronavirus Fails To Kill Zillions

March 15, 2020 britain, health and wellbeing, medicine, Uncategorized coronavirus, disease, fear and panic, government, old, panic, virus

by Ian R Thorpe

First of al can I say That I'm over 70 and I've no intention of self isolating for more than four hours. I know several attractive women half my age who are struggling to pay their rent and might welcome the chance to move into my spare bedroom.

UK Health Secretary Matt Hancock today confirmed the government plans to ask (or probably coerce,) people aged over 70 to isolate themselves from society for up to four months amid a coronavirus pandemic. The goal is to protect them, but critics say it may be a really bad idea.

It's quite obvious to us, experience bloggers and lifelong cynics that we are, that the government, civil service, law enforcement and national security agencies and all the assorted experts, pundits and talking heads have forgotten the lesson our generation learned from The Hitch Hiker's Guide To The Galaxy:

Isolating the elderly is "clearly in the action plan" Health Secretary Matt Hancock has told Sky News, confirming suspicions that the government and its advisors are in full panic mode. Reports in the British media over the past few days have predicted the government would advise older people to stay in their homes for a while ..... but four months? That could be a life sentence for some of us.

"We will be setting out more detail when it's the right time to do," Hancock added, which may mean within days or a few weeks down the line.

"We absolutely appreciate that it is a very big ask of the elderly and the vulnerable, and it's for their own self-protection," Hancock told Sky News reporter Sophy Ridge.

To date Britain has 1,140 confirmed cases of the Covid-19 disease, with the death toll standing at 21, both statistics being way below the numbers for seasonal 'flu or sepsis. According to medical professionals elderly people have shown to be more vulnerable to the virus, as they are more likely to develop serious symptoms. This is a misunderstanding of statistics of course as healthy elderly people are no more likely to develop serious symptoms from the infection. It is true to say that elderly people are more likely to die of coronavirus, but then it's also true to say that elederly people are more likely to die. End of story. Literally.

The British government has been criticized for its response to the coronavirus epidemic, which up to this latest panic measure was based on ~~spreading fear and panic~~ building up "herd immunity," rather than restraining the spread of the virus. That approach assumed those who developed the infection and recovered would have some immunity, though there is as yet little evidence of that.

The plan to have elderly people isolated for months on end is a bad idea as they have to have contact with the outside world to get food, attend medical appointments and so on, it also subjects them to increased risks of depression and other problems, some critics of the idea say.

The flu vaccine is a spectacular failure

March 3, 2020 health and wellbeing, medicine, science médical, business, disease, flu, health, profit, vaccine

As part of The Daily Stirrer's commitment to stirring things up for the environment, we feel obliged to question the 2sacred cow" narratives of the establisment, particularly those which are presented as "for the public good," but which on closer examination are for the good of corporate profits and the increase of political control over our daily lives. One of these narratives in recent years has been the promotion of vaccines, particularly those of dubious value such as the 'flu vaccine, which people of a certain age and above are urged to get each year.

The 'flu vaccine is big business for the pharmaceutical companies that make vaccines, but how effective is it?

from NewsTarget, 03 March 2020

We're often bombarded with "helpful" reminders to get our flu vaccines as winter rolls around, but when you take a closer look at the medical literature, there's a lot about the shot that simply doesn't add up. There are really two main qualities that you'd expect a vaccine that is pushed on the masses to possess: safety and efficacy. Unfortunately, the flu vaccine fails on both counts.

There's a huge body of evidence showing just how ineffective the flu vaccine is and how easily its effectiveness can drop depending on personal factors. The CDC can never really say just how well a particular season's flu vaccine will work as it must be created well ahead of the flu season, and there's no way of knowing which strains will dominate in a particular year – they can only guess. Then, they point out that past seasons have seen efficacies in the range of 40 to 60 percent, as if that's somehow something to brag about!

And when you look at particular years or groups of people alone, it fares far worse, with the overall effectiveness of 2018-2019 vaccine being just 29 percent across all the various age groups and flu viruses. This is according to information compiled by Children's Health Defense.

In February of 2019, flu vaccines were actually ineffective 91 percent of the time. And that upper efficacy of the range the CDC touts of 60 percent has only been reached once in the last 15 years. Some years have seen failure rates of as high as 90 percent, which is what happened in 2004-2005.

Is the World Health Organization involved in biological warfare research?

February 9, 2020 conspiracy, health and wellbeing, medicine, science biological, china, crime, humanity, law, science, scientists, usa, virus, weapon

Dr. Francis Boyle, a professor of international law at the University of Illinois College of Law, talked in a recent interview with Owen Shroyer of Infowars about the Wuhan coronavirus now sweeping through the far east,, the Biosafety Level 4 laboratory (BSL-4) in Wuhan, China, where the genetically modified virus appears to have originated, and the World Health Organization's (WHO) clandestine involvement in biological warfare research.

The most alarming part of the interview was the bombshell allegation of World Health Organisation involvement in the creation of weaponsised viruses as the WHO is supposed to be an agency that seeks to alleviate global health crises, not create them. But it would seem as though the WHO not only knew in advance that 2019-nCoV was created in a lab, but may have also been party to its creation. The Organisation must certainly have been aware of the virus as development of a vaccine was well advanced before news of the first members of the public being infected was broken.

If this is true, it would show a supposedly respected Non Government Organisation with close links to the United Nations a serious crime against humanity and a complete violation of the Geneva Convention and international law.

"The Chinese government has been lying about it from the get-go, covering it up, just like they did on SARS," Boyle stated during the interview, which you can watch below and at Brighteon.com. "The WHO is in on it. You can't believe anything the WHO is telling you because this is a WHO special designated research lab. The WHO is up to its eyeballs in biological warfare research."

To put it bluntly, the BSL-4 lab in Wuhan where many now suspect novel coronavirus originated was actually created for such bioweapon development by the WHO itself. It is perhaps because of his awareness of bioweapon research that Boyle drafted the U.S. legislation for the Biological Weapons Convention, known as the Biological Weapons Anti-Terrorism Act of 1989, which was unanimously approved by both houses of Congress and implemented by the administration of the late President George H.W. Bush.

As for President Trump's apparent indifference to the current crisis, Boyle blames Trump's scientific advisers for giving him incomplete and misleading information about what's going on. In Boyle's view, there are evil factions here in China and in the west, who are trying to cover up the extent of the unfolding catastrophe.

"I don't believe President Trump is getting proper scientific advice about how

Since the Boggart Bloggers started in this game almost 20 years ago we seem to have been periodically blogging about Afghanistan. Back then it was mainly me and my sister and when we posted blogs suggesting (very reasonably we thought) that any intervention by the western powers, France, the UK and the USA (FUKUS Axis as we call them,) in the internal affairs of a country history has dubbed "The graveyard of Empires" was doomed.

"I don't believe President Trump is getting proper scientific advice about how dangerous this really is and that it is an offensive biological warfare weapon," Boyle stated during the interview. "Basically, he has surrounding him all these scientists who have been up to their eyeballs in this dirty warfare research work here in the United States."

Nobody should rush to blame a single nation for this however, as well as the USA most other major powers have well established research programs in various types of illegal warfare. The list would include China and Russia naturally, the European Union its efforts led by its main economic and military powers UK, France, Italy and Germany. Although the UK is now no longer an EU member it seems highly likely the country will continue to cooperate with its neighbours and NATO allies in 'national security' matters.

Boyle also discussed a report put out by the GreatGameIndia journal that exposes novel coronavirus as a Chinese biowarfare agent, and not some random disease supposedly being spread by snakes and bats.

"On biowarfare programs they want to cover up, they always blame it on bats," Boyle contends. "You know, bats have been around forever, so give me a break."

Francis Boyle's contentions about novel coronavirus being a Chinese bioweapon constitute "synthetic news" in the eyes of Big Tech

A video of the entire interview with Boyle is a must watch for free – thinkers because it's a real eye-opener, and something mainstream media will avoid like The Plague (oops!). That's because any information containing even the most oblique references to the involvement of western nations and United Nations agencies in areas of activity that might expose the truth of how the ruling elites operate has been designated "synthetic news" by Google, Twitter, Facebook and the rest of Big Tech and the Big News cartel along with communist China which wants to be fully in charge of the narrative.

There's an obvious cover-up going on with this whole thing, which Mike Adams of Natural New, also discussed during a recent episode of The Health Ranger Report, which you can watchdirectly at Brighteon.com .

Dr. Francis Boyle interview:

Keep in mind as you watch, that Boyle isn't the only one talking about this shocking scandal. U.S. Senator Tom Cotton of Arkansas has also publicly warned that the official narrative surrounding coronavirus is questionable, at best. At worst, it's an absolute farce that's keeping everyone in the dark about how a viral pandemic has been unleashed not by wildlife but by evil men and women who develop and test biological weapons for a living.

"As one epidemiologist said: 'That virus went into the seafood market before it came out of the seafood market.' We still don't know where it originated," Sen. Cotton is quoted as saying.

"I would note that Wuhan also has China's only bio-safety level four super laboratory that works with the world's most deadly pathogens to include, yes, coronavirus." Other experts, inclidng Israeli bioweapons exper Dany Shoham have also spoken up in in agreement.

Big Pharma Billionaire Convicted Of Fraud And Conspiracy

February 6, 2020 conspiracy, health and wellbeing, medicine, Uncategorized big pharma, crime, drugs, fraud, law, medicine, scandal

Not long ago it would have been inconceivable that one day we would read a news story of Big Pharma company founder and owner finally being arrested for running a criminal drug cartel, but that is exactly what happened a few days ago..

"Federal authorities arrested the billionaire founder and owner of Insys Therapeutics Thursday on charges of bribing doctors and pain clinics into prescribing the company's fentanyl product to their patients," reports the Daily Caller News Foundation, one of the most popular alt_news sites online. Unfortunately The Caller features U.S. news, there is no Daily Calller UK or Daily Caller Europe as yet.

It is thanks to alt_news sites we now know addictive drugs including opioids, supplied on legitimate medical prescription, are claiming over 64,000 lives a year in the United States alone with numbers rising (but not yet officially acknowledged,) in Europe..

From the Daily Caller News Foundation:

The Department of Justice (DOJ) charged John Kapoor, 74, and seven other current and former executives at the pharmaceutical company with racketeering for a leading a national conspiracy through bribery and fraud to coerce the illegal distribution of the company's fentanyl spray, which is intended for use as a pain killer by cancer patients. The company's stock prices fell more than 20 percent following the arrests, according to the New York Post.

Kapoor stepped down as the company's CEO in January amid ongoing federal probes into their Subsys product, a pain-relieving spray that contains fentanyl, a highly-addictive synthetic opioid. Fentanyl is more than 50 times stronger than morphine, and ingesting just two milligrams is enough to cause an adult to fatally overdose.

The series of arrests came just hours after President Donald Trump officially declared the country's opioid epidemic a national emergency. Drug overdoses led to 64,070 deaths in 2016, which is more than the amount of American lives lost in the entire Vietnam War.

As the opioid crisis has developed, more and more states have begun holding doctors and opioid manufacturers accountable for over-prescribing and over-producing the highly-addictive painkillers.

"We will be bringing some major lawsuits against people and companies that are hurting our people," Trump said Thursday. He also spoke about a program similar to Nancy Reagan's "Just Say No" initiative.

"More than 20,000 Americans died of synthetic opioid overdoses last year, and millions are addicted to opioids. And yet some medical professionals would rather take advantage of the addicts than try to help them," Attorney General Jeff Sessions said in a statement. "This Justice Department will not tolerate this. We will hold accountable anyone – from street dealers to corporate executives — who illegally contributes to this nationwide epidemic. And under the leadership of President Trump, we are fully committed to defeating this threat to the American people.

Under The Trump administration, which is at least attempting to fight to end the drug cartels and health care monopolies that are destroying so many lives in the USA, at least the American drug companies are facing the legal scrutiny they deserve for engaging in the mass medical murder of patients through overprescriptions and incorrect use of dangerous, dependency forming drugs. We can only hope that the corrupt and rotten to the core socialised health systems of Europe are similarly called to account sometime soon.

And then there's the question of vaccines, the autism cover-up and the criminal racket run by the CDC, Big Pharma and the lying mainstream media. When that medical fraud and corruption scandal blows sky-high, we may see dozens of pharmaceutical officials going to prison.

Corona Virus: Should We Worry

February 3, 2020 health and wellbeing, medicine

The official data coming out of China and from other sources including the World Health Organisation (WHO) on the spread of the Wuhan coronavirus continues to suggest an exponential growth rate. With more and more infectious disease experts are now openly calling the virus a full-blown global pandemic although acording to dictionary definitions it is some way short of that so far, many people are asking should we in the west be worried and how bad might things get?

It's worth noting at this point that the data we do have, is mostly from the Chinese government, and therefore must be treated as suspect. Unconformed reports from westerners inside China suggest the situation is far worse than the authorities are willing to admit.

Unusually, given the usual sequence of events when these scares occur, Western news media, usually the first to start pumping up the fear and panic, seems intent on downplaying the current threat by trying to convince us that the standard flu is more dangerous. Which is absolutely untrue, at least in terms of survivability.

So, we must continue to educate ourselves as best we can.

Naturally cospiracy theorists in the side of the Military – Industrial complex are floating the possibility that the outbreak is a biowarfare attack on China by the CIA. Were this so, it would be a highly effective means of destabilizing the regime as a point where China's campaign to displace the USA as world No. 1 superpower looks to be succeeding.

The situation in Hong Kong, as many commentators have observed, looks suspiciously like another CIA engineered "color revolution" concocted to pair with the pressures exerted by the Trade War. A deadly epidemic to disrupt the Chinese economy on the back of that could be one crisis too many and lead to a collapse of confidence in the Communist Party and government when the economy is already teetering on the balance of a debt bubble implosion.

The CIA may have infiltrated the lab in Wuhan and arranged for the release of the weaponized virus...then followed that up with a leak of the fact that it is a weaponized virus, along with evidence to back up the claim, resulting in international condemnation and sanctions for violating international laws and treaties regarding that kind of weapons technology along with outrage from its population for gross negligence.

There were certainly suspicions of DARPA involvement in the development of the new and unusually lethal strain of Ebola virus that hit West Africa a few years ago. And as with that Ebolas virus, as soon as cases of the Wuhan coronavirus were reported in the USA, scientists were claiming they had the vaccine 'almost ready.' Funny how vaccines usually take years to develop but in the case of these fear-and-panic pandemics they are 'almost ready' within days. One would be forgiven for thinking there is something dodgy going on.

It also seems too convenient that the "Phase 1" trade deal between the USA and China was signed right around the same time that the viral outbreak began. What better way to deflect claims of a US bio attack than for Trump to show America's willingness to "work with" China.

Add the fact that the outbreak began during the biggest Chinese national holiday, when people would be socializing en masse and travelling across the country to visit relatives and then back home again after the holiday. PERFECT timing to disseminate the virus and prevent it from being contained. Is it any wonder conspiracy theories are proliferating?

And also let's not forget the bizarre Swine Flu epidemic that wiped out the entire pig farming industry in China in 2019, pork being the biggest protein staple in the Chinese diet. Destabilizing economically and socially.

If only I had though of all this as a plot for a novel before it started actually happening.
